A SONG AT EVENTIDE. Lord Irish in Pittsburgh Chronicte Telegraph.

Down from the sky the twillight shadow falls

To kiss the sea,

And from my heart the yarning bunger calls,

Bear love, to thee.

Dear iove, to thee.

E'en as the c'oud love woors the singing sea With soft caress, With soft caress, With soft caress, Bo bounds my heart, oh! love of mine, to thee, In tenderness, In tenderness.

As the soft dood tide meets the cloud's caress
with murmur sweet.
With murmur sweet.
So thou, my love, with all thy loveliness,
My love will greet.
My love will greet.

Sieep, cloud and twilight, on the sea's soft bring space, in slumbering peace, in slumbering peace, in sumbering peace, in my love's arms I've found a sweeter rest. And purer bits. And purer bits.

TIN WARE AND THE TARIFF. The New Duty is Not On Yet-Some luter

of tinware to consumors. For such articles are made rapidly and in enormous quantities from tin plate, on which the duty will not be altered until July 1, 1891. The price of plates is exactly what it was some weeks before the tariff bill passed. But it is a cheering thing for Americans to know that the prospects of better defense for this manufacture have already brought about a beginning of production; one establishment was actually turning out tin plates in this country, it is stated, when the President signed the bill. But when the duty does take effect what will be the consequent addition to the retail prices of tinware? Absolutely nothing. This was made exceedingly clear by the able Senator from Rhode Island, Mr. Aldrich, in closing the debate. He submitted a table showing exactly the present cost perdozen and for each of a large number of a raticles of common use, the added cost present retail price. Thus a dinner kettle holding three quarts, now costing $1.44 per dozen, or 12 cents each, weighing from the new duty, and the present retail price. Thus a dinner kettle holding three quarts, now costing $1.44 per dozen, or 12 cents each, weighing one pound four ounces, by the new duty may be increased in cost to 133 cents each in consequence of the duty. So four-quart milkpans, now costing 55 cents per dozen, might cost 53 cents each in consequence of the duty, but they now retail or 22 cents each. The difference between the wholesale cost and the retail price is now 60 cents. Plainly no because of the duty will not affect the consumer in the slightest degree.

Senator Addich made the broad statement in his speech that on all ordinary grades of cotton and woolen cloit duties had been reduced, and "upon all the articles which Senators on the otherside have useriled to day as necessaries of its there are not only no enormous inverse in duties by this bill, but there are none whatever." He thereupon challenged any Senator to question the accuracy of this statement. Not a Sen.
